

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

O'KEEFE COMMUNICATIONS WINS
2011 CINE GOLDEN EAGLE AWARD

Washington, DC, June 27, 2011 – O'Keefe Communications has another CINE Golden Eagle statue for the shelf, this time for the production of an important video produced for the National Center for Victims of Crime entitled "The Use of Technology to Stalk".

The video was created for professionals in law enforcement and was designed to educate police and those in the criminal justice field about the growing use of new technologies – such as GPS, cell phones, surveillance cameras and social networks – in stalking crimes.

The CINE Golden Eagle Awards are recognized internationally as symbols of the highest production standards in film and video production. This year over 1,000 productions were entered nationally and internationally. The award results were based on the highest standards of artistry, production value, and communications effectiveness.

O'Keefe Communications

O'Keefe Communications is a leading provider of video, multimedia and event production services. For more than 32 years, O'Keefe has produced events nationwide for corporations, associations, nonprofits, and government and is the recipient of over 100 prestigious awards for creative excellence. The company is based in Washington, DC, and is a member of Women in Film and Video, and ASAE and the Center for Association Leadership. O'Keefe is also certified as a Women's Business Enterprise.

For more information on O'Keefe Communications, please contact Catie O'Keefe at (202) 363-2101 or visit at www.okeefecom.com

CINE Awards

Since its founding in 1957, CINE has been dedicated to discovering, rewarding, educating, and supporting established and emerging talent in film and video. To find out more about the CINE Awards, please visit www.CINE.org.

**###